

12TH GRADE REQUIRED HISTORY SUMMER READING 2020

Accelerated

Isabel Wilkerson, The Warmth of Other Suns, 2010

This non-fiction book describes the causes and outcomes of the Great Migration, which occurred throughout the years 1915-1970. The author follows 3 different individuals: Ida Mae Brandon Gladney, George Swanson Starling, and Robert Joseph Pershing Foster as they suffered in the Jim Crow South and then migrated to various Northern cities in the 1930s during the Great Depression to escape violence and discrimination only to encounter continued racism in the North.

“What binds these stories together was the back against the wall, reluctant yet hopeful search for something better, any place but where they were. They did what human beings looking for freedom, throughout history, have often done. They left.” - Isabel Wilkerson

You are required to read the first four sections of this book which takes you through the section entitled “The Kinder Mistress.” (p. 431) You may read the entire book, including the last section entitled “Aftermath” for extra credit, which will be assessed during the first week of school.
